Game-Winning Scores at End of Regulation or OT

1954 | Milan 32, Muncie Central 30 | Bobby Plump's pull-up jumper just before the final buzzer provided the signature moment in Indiana high school basketball history in the 1954 IHSAA state championship game. Following a timeout and the score tied 30-30 with :18 seconds remaining, Plump dribbled by himself near the top of the key while his four teammates all cleared to the left side of the court. Plump waited until five seconds remained on the clock before driving right and hitting the game-winning shot over his Muncie defender thrilling a frenzied Hinkle Fieldhouse crowd of 14,983. The final minutes saw Plump hold the ball for 4:13 of the fourth quarter before the teams found themselves tied leading up to the final play. The Ripley County school of just 161 students that claimed the state championship over its big-school opponent would serve as the inspiration for the movie, Hoosiers, more than 30 years later.

1980 | Indianapolis Broad Ripple 71, Marion 69 | The Rockets' Stacey Toran banked in a 57-foot desperation heave at the buzzer giving Indianapolis Broad Ripple a stunning 71-69 victory over Marion in the afternoon semifinal of the 1980 IHSAA State Finals at Market Square Arena. Following a Marion timeout, Toran, who finished the game with 10 points and six rebounds, received the inbounds pass from Jeff Adkisson, took a step toward the basket and fired the winning shot. The win sent Broad Ripple to its first state championship game which they would capture later that evening with a 73-66 victory over New Albany. Toran, also an All-State wide receiver, would go on to play five seasons (1984-88) for the Los Angeles Raiders of the NFL.

1996 | Ben Davis 57, New Albany 54 (2OT) | Senior Jeff Poisel capped a record-setting performance with a buzzer-beating three-pointer to give Ben Davis a 57-54 victory in the second overtime before an RCA Dome crowd of 21,748 in the 1996 state championship game. Poisel's sixth trey of the game came from the right side which broke the state championship game record set a year earlier. The Giants repeated as state champions while making a record fourth straight appearance in the State Finals.

2005 | Washington 74, Plymouth 72 (OT) | Washington senior center Luke Zeller swished a half-court shot at the overtime horn to give his team a 74-72 triumph over Plymouth in the IHSAA Class 3A championship game in front of a sellout crowd of 18,345 at Consecro Fieldhouse in Indianapolis. Plymouth had taken a 72-71 lead on a lay-up by freshman guard Randy Davis with two seconds left in overtime. Zeller just missed a triple-double, finishing with game-highs of 27 points, nine rebounds, and a Class 3A-record 11 assists. His heroics earned Washington its fourth state title and first since 1942.

2008 | Brownsburg 40, Marion 39 | Gordon Hayward dropped in a twisting runner from point-blank range as time expired to send unranked Brownsburg to a 40-39 victory over No. 8 Marion in the IHSAA Class 4A state championship game at Consecro Fieldhouse. Hayward's last-second heroics erased an equally clutch jumper by Marion's Scott Wood with 2.1 ticks left. After a series of four timeouts between the two teams, Brownsburg's Austin Fish fired a one-handed pass three-quarters the length of the court, only to see Marion's Jay Edwards get both hands on the ball. An alert Julian Mavunga jarred the ball loose, where it squirted free to Hayward in the middle of the lane. Without hesitation, Hayward put the ball on the rim where it dropped through after time had expired resulting in Brownsburg's first basketball state crown.

Arthur L. Trester & Ray Craft Mental Attitude Awards

The IHSAA Executive Committee presents the Arthur L. Trester & Ray Craft Mental Attitude Awards to the outstanding senior participant in each classification of the boys basketball state finals.

The recipients of these awards, who were nominated by their principals and coaches, must excel in mental attitude, scholarship, leadership and athletic ability in basketball.

The Indiana Pacers and Indiana Fever, the presenting sponsors of the state tournament, present a $1,000 scholarship to the school's general scholarship fund in the name of the recipient.

The 4A, 3A and 2A awards are named in honor of the late Arthur L. Trester who served as first commissioner of the Association from 1929 to 1944. Trester helped Indiana high school sports and the IHSAA emerge from the Great Depression in a position of preeminence unmatched by perhaps any other state in the nation.

Beginning in 2016, the Class A award was re-named in honor of Ray Craft, the long-time associate commissioner who served from 1983 to 2008. Craft was involved at nearly every level of Indiana secondary education and interscholastic athletics during his career including administering the boys basketball state tournament for many years. He was also a starting senior guard on Milan High School's 1954 state championship basketball team.

From 1917 to 1943 the award was known as "The Gimbel Medal for Mental Attitude" in honor of Mr. Jake Gimbel of Vincennes, who awarded the medal each of those years until his passing prior to the 1943 tournament. In 1944, the award became known as the "IHSAA Medal for Mental Attitude". In 1945, the IHSAA Board officially named the award "The Arthur L. Trester Medal for Mental Attitude".

Recipients were given a medal each year from 1945 through 1964, hence "The Arthur L. Trester Medal for Mental Attitude." Since 1965, the award has been made in the form of a plaque with a copy of the original medal incorporated on the face of the plaque.

As the presenting partners of the state tournament, the Indiana Pacers and Indiana Fever, present a $1,000 scholarship to the school in the name of the recipient.

IHSAA Boys Basketball Tournament Timeline

March 10-11, 1911: The first state tournament is conducted at Assembly Hall on the Indiana University campus in Bloomington. The tournament, which features the best team from each of Indiana's 13 congressional districts, is held March 10-11, 1911 by the IU Boosters Club, despite neither an endorsement nor opposition from the IHSAA's Board of Control. Only 12 teams compete, however, as the Indianapolis School Board would not permit Manual or Shortridge to represent that district. Crawfordsville defeats Lebanon, 24-17, in the championship game. The 1911 tournament wouldn't be acknowledged by the IHSAA's Board of Control as the state's first official tournament until 1957.

September 23, 1911: The IHSAA Board of Control makes the decision to host the first state basketball tournament while meeting at the Claypool Hotel in downtown Indianapolis.

1912: The state basketball tournament, officially sponsored by the IHSAA for the first time and assisted by the IU Boosters Club, features 13 teams. The state is divided into four large sections based on the congressional districts of the day and the winning team from each of the four sectional sites advances to play for the state championship one week later in Bloomington.

1913: The district plan is abandoned and a total of 38 teams enter the state tournament with all games being played in Bloomington over two days (Friday and Saturday, March 14-15, 1913) to determine the state's best team. Wingate, a school of 25 students located in Montgomery County, defeats South Bend, 15-14, in five overtimes to win the state championship. With the score tied at 13-13 at the end of regulation, the referee declares that two-minute periods will be played and the first team to score two points would be the winner.

March 13-14, 1914: Seventy-seven teams enter the state tournament in Bloomington and the unexpected number of entries forces tournament officials to use four different playing floors in Bloomington and to schedule 76 games in two days. The Indiana University Men's Gymnasium, Indiana University Women's Gymnasium, Indiana University Auditorium and Bloomington Armory are all used to host contests. The eventual champion, Wingate, plays two games on Friday and a grueling four games on Saturday, defeats Anderson, 36-8, to win the championship to become the first team to repeat as state champion.

1915: First Year for Sectionals – With 155 teams entered, more than double the year before, 14 sectional elimination tournaments are set up throughout the state. The 14 winners move on to the state finals in Bloomington the following week. The games were played at the IU Men's Gymnasium where they would reside through 1918.

1916: As the total number of teams entering (204) continues to climb annually, 16 sectional tourneys were held with the survivors advancing to Bloomington for the state finals.

1917: Twenty sectional tourneys were held this year with 255 teams entered.

March 17, 1917: In what would become an annual tradition of the boys basketball tournament and, later, in every IHSAA sport, a mental attitude award is presented for the first time. The Gimbel Prize for Mental Attitude, as it was known, is awarded to Claude Curtis of Martinsville, which had lost to eventual champion Lebanon in the semifinals. The award is named for Mr. Jake Gimbel of Vincennes, who had proposed to the IHSAA Board of Control in 1916 that a cash prize and medal be awarded to a member of one of the teams who showed the best mental attitude during the state finals tournament. Mr. Gimbel recognized the mental and moral strain under which the participants play during the tournament and he also recognized the numerous opportunities for the players to lose control of themselves and to do something not conducive to true sportsmanship and felt an award was appropriate.

1918: With 301 teams participating, a total of 20 sectional elimination tournaments are played to determine the state finalists.

1919: Twenty-two sectionals were used to determine the teams that would advance to the state finals. This year, the state finals tournament was played at Purdue University's Memorial Gymnasium.

1920: Twenty-six sectionals are scheduled to accommodate the 372 teams that indicate they would enter the state tournament. The state finals return to the Indiana University Men's Gymnasium.

1921: First Year for Regionals – Another record turnout of 394 teams enter the state tournament forcing the IHSAA Board of Control to make adjustments in the tournament format. Thirty-two sectionals are played followed one week later by 16 one-game regionals which would determine the state finalist teams. Eight regional games were hosted by Indiana University and eight more at Purdue University. From 1921 through 1935, 16 teams would advance to the state finals tournament. This also was the first year the state finals are played at the Indianapolis Coliseum, where the finals would reside through 1924.

March 18, 1922: Franklin, led by player Robert "Fuzzy" Vandivier, becomes the first school to win three consecutive state championships. Coach Ernest "Griz" Wagner becomes the first to direct three championship teams.

1923: Indiana University and Purdue University and Fort Wayne serve as regional sites with the former hosting one round (six winners) and the latter two hosting two rounds (five winners each) to determine the 16 state finalists.

1924: Earlham College, Fort Wayne, Indiana University and Purdue University serve as regional sites with four teams from each advancing to the state finals.

1925: The advent of radio allows high school basketball games to be broadcast into living rooms across the Hoosier State.

March 20-21, 1925: State Finals are played for the first time at the Exposition Building or the "Cow Barn", as it was referred to, at the Indiana State Fairgrounds. The tournament would be staged at the venue in 1926 and 1927 as well. Eight regional sites are employed for the first time with two teams from each location advancing to state. The same format would also be used in 1926.

1927: First year for 64 sectionals and 16 regionals.

1928: After signing a lease agreement with Butler University which guaranteed completion of its facility, the IHSAA stages the state finals for the first time in the new Butler Fieldhouse.

March 15, 1930: Burl Friddle of Washington, becomes the first person to play on a state championship team and then coach a team to the state title. Friddle fiddle center on the 1920 Franklin champions, then came back to win honors as a coach 10 years later with the Hatchets.

March 18, 1933: In winning his third title in 10 years, Martinsville's Glenn Curtis becomes the first person to coach four teams to the state championship (Lebanon 1918; Martinsville 1924, 1927, 1933).

1936: First year that only four teams advance to state finals. Following 64 sectionals and 16 regionals, four "Semi-final" tournaments are played the weekend before state, featuring four teams at each site, with the lone winner at each advancing to the state finals. This also is the last season in which a center jump takes place after each score.

March 26, 1938: Burl Friddle, the winning coach of state champion Fort Wayne South Side, becomes the first person to play for a state champion (Franklin 1920) and coach two different schools to the title as well (Washington 1930). A total of 787 schools enter the state tournament series to comprise the largest field in history.

October 26, 1938: The IHSAA Athletic Council passed a rule that, in essence, only allowed full member schools to participate in state tournaments.

March 25, 1939: Frankfort becomes the first school to win four basketball state championships (also 1925, 1929 and 1936). Everett Case joins Glenn Curtis as a four-time state championship coach.

March 30, 1940: The Hammond Tech Tigers win the school's first state championship which was played one week later than originally scheduled. During its Nov. 18, 1939 meeting, the IHSAA Board of Control, after being petitioned by state religious leaders, approved moving the date of the state finals at Butler Fieldhouse from March 23 to March 30 in order to avoid Holy Week celebrations.

December 20, 1941: The IHSAA Athletic Council does its part to eliminate prejudice in the state by passing a resolution allowing all public, private, parochial, African-American or institutional high schools to become full members of the Association provided they offer and maintain three or four years of high school work and that they meet the requirements of the Association and subscribe to its rules and regulations. The rule would go into effect beginning August 15, 1942 and open the doors to the 1943 state tournament later that winter.

March 20, 1943: For the first time, the state finals are played at the new Indianapolis Coliseum (not the same building that hosted 1921-1924) at the Indiana State Fairgrounds. The tournament would be staged there through 1945 while Butler Fieldhouse served as a barracks for the United States Air Force and Navy during World War II.

February 16-17, 1945: After awarding the "Gimbel Prize for Mental Attitude" from 1917 to 1943 and the "IHSAA Medal for Mental Attitude" in 1944, the IHSAA Board renames the award "The Arthur L. Trester Medal for Mental Attitude" in honor of the man who served as first commissioner of the Association from 1929 to 1944. Recipients were given a medal each year from 1945 through 1964, hence "The Arthur L. Trester Medal for Mental Attitude." Beginning in 1965, the award is made in the form of a plaque with a copy of the original medal incorporated on the face of the plaque, hence "The Arthur L. Trester Award for Mental Attitude."

March 16, 1946: The state finals tournament returns to Butler Fieldhouse and continues each year through 1971. The facility would be renamed Hinkle Fieldhouse in 1966 in honor of Butler's legendary coach and athletic director, Paul D. "Tony" Hinkle.

January 27, 1951: The IHSAA signs a contract with WFBM-TV in Indianapolis for television rights to the 1951 state tournament. The station televises the state finals for the first time on March 17, 1951 from Butler Fieldhouse.

March 20, 1954: The Milan Indians return to Butler Fieldhouse one year after a state finals appearance in 1953 and capture the state championship with a 32-30 victory over perennial power Muncie Central. Bobby Plump swishes the game-winning shot in the final seconds to give the Ripley County school of 161 students a thrilling victory over their big-school opponent. This game would be the inspiration for the movie, Hoosiers, more than 30 years later.

March 19, 1955: Indianapolis Crispus Attucks, coached by Ray Crowe and led on the floor by Oscar Robertson, becomes the first African-American school to win the state tournament with a 97-74 victory over Gary Roosevelt.

March 17, 1956: The Tigers of Indianapolis Crispus Attucks repeat and become the first unbeaten state champion (31-0) by defeating Lafayette Jefferson, 79-57.

December 15, 1956: At its December 15 meeting, the IHSAA Board of Control votes to change the name of the level of the tournament that precedes the state finals from "semi-finals" to "semi-states" effective with the 1957 state tournament. The name "semi-final" had been used since 1936.

March 23, 1957: South Bend Central ends Indianapolis Crispus Attucks' bid to win its third straight title with a 67-55 triumph to become the second ever undefeated champions at 30-0.

January 18-19, 1957: Forty-six years later, the IHSAA, led by Commissioner L.V. Phillips, officially recognizes Crawfordsville as the first state champion in 1911. The formal recognition comes during the 1957 state finals and changes the numbering of the annual tournaments making the 1957 tournament, the 47th instead of the 46th.

March 17, 1962: The first state finals with four former state champions competing – East Chicago Washington, Evansville Bosse, Kokomo, Madison.

March 23, 1963: Muncie Central, coached by first-year leader Dwight Tallman, captures its record fifth state title with a 65-61 victory over South Bend Central.

1964: First year that the IHSAA presented a sectional championship trophy to each winning school.

March 21, 1964: Lafayette Jefferson coach Marion Crawley wins his fourth state championship joining Glenn Curtis and Everett Case after his Bronchos defeat Huntington, 58-55.

March 22, 1969: Indianapolis Washington takes a 79-76 decision from Gary Tolleston in the final game to become the third unbeaten state champion at 31-0. The four state finalist teams enter the final tournament with a collective record of 110-1 record: Gary Tolleston (27-1), Indianapolis Washington (29-0), Marion (27-0) and Vincennes Lincoln (27-0).

March 21, 1970: Becoming the fourth ever state champion without a loss at 28-0, East Chicago Roosevelt tops Carmel, 72-62, for the state crown.

March 20, 1971: Matching its cross-town rival's feat of a year earlier, East Chicago Washington becomes the third consecutive state champion and fifth overall to finish the year unblemished at 29-0 following its 70-60 win over Elkhart in the final game.

March 20, 1971: The last of 41 state finals is contested at Hinkle Fieldhouse.

March 18, 1972: First of three years the state finals were played at Assembly Hall in Bloomington.

March 22, 1975: First state finals at Market Square Arena.

April 15, 1978: Winter weather and an energy crunch caused by a coal miners strike force a delay of the state tournament following the sectional championship round. Regional games resume three weeks later than originally scheduled on April 1 with semi-states on April 8 and the state finals on April 15. Muncie Central goes on to win its sixth state championship defeating Terre Haute South in overtime, 65-64.

1979: First year the IHSAA Executive Committee presents medals to individuals participating in the state finals. Previously rings were presented to participants.

March 24, 1979: Muncie Central repeats as state champion with a 64-60 victory over Anderson and wins its seventh IHSAA state basketball title.

1980: First year the state championship trophy was presented in the shape of the state of Indiana.

March 27, 1982: In one of the most memorable state championship games, Plymouth, behind Scott Skiles' 39 points, takes down Gary Roosevelt in double overtime, 75-74. Skiles' 22-foot jumper at the buzzer to end regulation sent the game to overtime. With an enrollment of 894 students, Plymouth becomes the smallest school to win the state championship since Milan in 1954.

March 19, 1983: New Castle's Steve Alford pours in 57 points in a semi-state semifinal game against Indianapolis Broad Ripple, the second-highest total in a state tournament game and the most in the tourney's modern era.

March 26, 1983: In one of the most memorable scoring duels in state history, Marion standout James Blackmon pours in a state finals single game record 52 points, but Anderson, behind 42 points from Troy Lewis, emerged the victor in the afternoon semifinal game, 89-87, in double overtime.

March 23, 1985: The 75th year of the state basketball tournament saw Marion capture its fourth championship with a 74-67 victory over Richmond to become the sixth undefeated championship team at 29-0. Coach Bill Green joins Glenn Curtis, Everett Case and Marion Crawley with four titles to his credit.

March 29, 1986: Coach Bill Green of Marion becomes first person to coach five state championship teams in leading Marion to its second straight crown in a 75-56 win over Anderson.

March 28, 1987: Marion defeats Richmond, 69-56, and joins Franklin (1920, 1921, 1922) as the only teams to win three straight state titles; Bill Green coaches his sixth state championship team.

March 26, 1987: The three-point field goal is officially approved by the NFHS Basketball Rules Committee and will be introduced to the high school game beginning with the 1987-88 season.

March 26, 1988: Muncie Central captures its eighth state championship with a 76-53 victory over Concord.

June 14, 1989: The IHSAA Executive Committee approves a plan to host the 1989-90 IHSAA Boys Basketball State Finals at the Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis.

March 24, 1990: The state finals are played at the Hoosier Dome (renamed RCA Dome in 1994) and draws a national high school record crowd of 41,046 which sees Damon Bailey lead Bedford North Lawrence to a 63-60 upset of top-ranked Concord in the title game. It would be the last of 61 consecutive state finals sell-outs. Bailey ends his prep career as the state's all-time leading scorer with 3,134 points.

March 23, 1996: Ben Davis, making its record-setting fourth consecutive appearance in the state finals, defeats New Albany for the championship, 57-54, in double overtime. Jeff Poisel's three-pointer at the buzzer scores Ben Davis its second consecutive state title.

April 29, 1996: Following more than two years of research and meetings by the Class Sports Study Committee, the IHSAA Board of Directors considers the committee's proposal, which calls for multiple-class formats in several sports, including basketball, and passes it 12-5 at its annual meeting on April 29. Implementation is scheduled for the 1997-98 school year.

September 17, 1996: In the first referendum of a Board of Directors decision in IHSAA history, the membership upholds the April 29, 1996 action by a margin of 220 to 157. Eight ballots are not received by the voting deadline and, as specified in the IHSAA By-Laws, a simple majority of the membership (193 of the 385 member schools) is needed to overturn the original vote.

March 22, 1997: Bloomington North defeats Delta, 75-54, in the championship game of the final single class state tournament.

April 9, 1997: As a compromise with opponents to the multiple class tournament format, the IHSAA Executive Committee adopts the "Tournament of Champions" pitting the four state championship teams into their own tournament the following weekend.

March 28, 1998: For the first time, the state tournament is separated into four different classes based on school enrollment as Pike (Class 4A), Indianapolis Cathedral (3A), Alexandria (2A) and Lafayette Central Catholic (A) win their respective state championships. Indianapolis Cathedral and Lafayette Central Catholic become the first private/parochial schools to win an IHSAA boys basketball state championship.

April 4, 1998: Pike (Class 4A) defeats Lafayette Central Catholic (Class A), 87-44, in the championship game of the Tournament of Champions at the RCA Dome.

May 3, 1999: At its May 3 meeting, the IHSAA Executive Committee votes to eliminate the Tournament of Champions after two years effective with the 2000 state tournament.

March 25, 2000: The State Finals move to Consecro Fieldhouse in downtown Indianapolis, the new home of the Indiana Pacers of the National Basketball Association (NBA). The evening session (Class 3A & 4A) draws a sell-out crowd of 18,263, the first sell-out of the class sports era and the highest since 26,187 saw Bloomington North defeat Delta in the last single class championship game at the RCA Dome in 1997.

April 30, 2001: At its annual meeting, the IHSAA Board of Directors approved, effective 2003-2004, the ability of schools to play up one or more classification levels. Schools will be allowed to play in a higher classification in one or more sports while remaining in their natural classification in others. Schools which opt to play in a higher class must declare at the beginning of an enrollment classification cycle and stay in those classes through the entire cycle.

March 29, 2003: This is the first year that three contest officials were used to work a state championship game.

March 29, 2003: Cass (26-0) in Class 2A and Pike (29-0) in 4A become the seventh and eighth teams, respectively, in tournament history to finish the season undefeated with their championship game victories.

March 29, 2003: In leading Cass to a 57-48 victory over Forest Park in the Class 2A title game, Basil Mawbey becomes the first coach in tournament history to lead three different schools to a championship game. Mawbey led Connersville to the 1983 title and Kokomo to a runner-up finish in 1989.

March 26, 2005: The evening session of the state finals, which includes the 3A and 4A championship games, draws a sell-out crowd of 18,345. Along with the 15,748 who attended the morning session (Class A, 2A), the combined attendance of 34,093 stands as a class-era record.

March 25, 2006: For the second consecutive year, the evening session of the state finals attracts a sell-out crowd of 18,345. Lawrence North wins its third consecutive state championship in Class 4A joining Franklin (1920-22) and Marion (1985-87) and becomes the 10th school to go an entire season undefeated (29-0). It also marked Lawrence North's 45th consecutive victory tying the state record set by Indianapolis Attucks from 1954-55 to 1955-56. Sports Illustrated, USA Today and Prep Nation (used by the Associated Press) each name Lawrence North as its national champion in its final prep rankings, the first Indiana team to finish in the top spot in each respective poll.

December 15, 2006: Lawrence North wins its first five games of the 2006-07 season and sets the state record with 50 consecutive victories before falling to Indianapolis Arlington, 46-44.

March 24, 2007: With its 63-52 victory in the Class A state championship game, Oregon-Davis becomes the first school to sweep the girls and boys basketball state championships in the same school year. Three weeks earlier, the school's girls team won the Class A state championship.

March 24, 2007: A crowd of 17,997 sells out the evening session of the state finals, the third consecutive year a capacity crowd as been on hand.

March 22, 2008: The IHSAA's partner IHSAASports.org, a website run by Emmis Communications in Indianapolis, streams the state finals to the internet for the first time. All four games are available in live video and audio to anyone, anywhere. The video stream draws approximately 16,000 individual viewers for the four games. Attendance for the evening session of the state finals at Consecro Fieldhouse lures 18,305 on-lookers, a sold out crowd for the fourth consecutive year.

March 28, 2009: Class 3A state champ Princeton (29-0) and 4A state champ Bloomington South (26-0) become the 11th and 12th teams, respectively, to finish a season undefeated. In its second year, the total number of individual viewers for the four-game video stream on IHSAASports.org nearly doubles from the year before to approximately 32,000.

March 27, 2010: The IHSAA celebrated the 100th year of Hoosier Hysteria that culminated at the state finals with a parade of previous state champions through the streets of downtown Indianapolis. This special year was highlighted throughout the season with events, reunions, and local celebrations at schools around the state as part of the 100 Years IN 100 Days mobile tour. On the court, North Central of Indianapolis (4A), Washington (3A), Wheeler (2A) and Bowman Academy (A) captured the respective state championships.

March 24, 2012: For the first time, the IHSAA boys basketball state finals telecast is aired in high-definition via WTTV Indiana's 4 and the IHSAA Champions Network.

February 1, 2014: The IHSAA announces that the Indiana Pacers and Indiana Fever will become presenting sponsors of the state high school basketball tournaments. The Pacers and Fever become the first professional basketball franchises to partner with a state high school association and its tournaments.

March 29, 2014: The boys basketball state finals are televised on Fox Sports Indiana for the first time of a multi-year agreement.

March 19, 2020: The IHSAA boys basketball state tournament is officially cancelled for the first time in history due to the global spread of the COVID-19 pandemic. Indiana Governor Eric Holcomb directs that all Indiana schools are to be closed until at least May 1 effectively forcing the end of the state tournament. The tournament had been postponed on Friday, March 13, one day prior to the start of regional games due to an increasing number of school closures and was to be contested without spectators.

April 3, 2021: Amid the COVID-19 global pandemic, the IHSAA Boys Basketball State Finals are successfully held at Bankers Life Fieldhouse albeit a week later than originally scheduled. With the NCAA moving its entire men's basketball tournament to Indianapolis, the Fieldhouse was needed as a host venue and the IHSAA agreed to vacate its March 27 date to play the state finals a week later. Carmel (4A), Silver Creek (3A), Fort Wayne Blackhawk Christian (2A) and Barr-Reeve (A) would go on to win their respective state championships. Each game is played before limited spectators with each school allotted just 1,000 tickets. With the exception of players in the game, all individuals are required to wear face masks or face coverings. All seats, including team benches, are arranged to be socially distanced throughout the facility. After the awards ceremony for each game, the venue is cleared of spectators and cleaned before fans for the ensuing game are allowed inside.

March 26, 2022
With his team's 65-31 victory over Chesterton in the 4A state championship game, Jason Delaney, head coach of Indianapolis Cathedral, becomes the first coach to win state titles at three different schools. Delaney also guided Waldron to the Class A title in 2004 and Indianapolis Arsenal Technical to a 4A title in 2014.
